About the State

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be Two cases of diphtheria have developed in the Barlow street school in St. Albans, but the school was closed only long enough to allow a thorough fumi-

Carl King sustained a severe injury while working beneath a car in the railroad yard at St. Johnsbury Thursday afternoon. The car was started and he was dragged along several feet, breaking one of his legs and causing other injuries about his body.

He was a yard man, and was breaking in the shifting of cars when, owing to a loose nut on the top of a brake rod a car wheel fell upon him, and both of his legs were seriously crushed. Report of State Cattle Commissioner.

The report of F. L. Davis, state cattle commissioner, has been made public and covers the period from September 1, 1908, to June 30, 1910. During that time, 41,327 cattle were tested and 4,376 were condemned and killed after the test. Owners of animals condemned and slaughtered received $102,465.33, and other expenses brought the amount paid out up to $138,102.29. The sum of $7,-841.75 was received from the Burlington Rendering company, and $5 from the sale of tuberculin, leaving the net cost to Vermont for the 22 months covered by the report, $130,255,54.

Mr. Davis makes several recommendations, among them the organization of the veterinaries of the state, and that the state employ only qualified veterina-ries; that cattle owners should be obliged to buy only tested animals, after once having their own herd tested, and that the rendering plant is the proper place to have diseased cattle disposed He also expresses the hope that he shall live to see all animals slaughtered for food slaughtered under the same inspection, and suggests that a law to that effect would mean much for the health of the people of Vermont. He thinks that the allowing of tuberculous cattle to be shipped to Massachusetts and then holding this state liable is all wrong, and that they should have the cows tested before they leave Vermont. Mr. Davis says Vermont is the only state which has this law, and he hopes to see ours repealed.
